

CARLA BUGALHO

RTP, Portuguese National Broadcaster

Carla Bugalho has a degree in Communication Sciences from FCSH at Universidade Nova de Lisboa. In 1999, he joined RTP as a production assistant, going through various areas of the station's programming. In 2003, she joined the core team of the Euro 2004 Broadcasting host team. Already as a producer in the entertainment area of RTP, she became assistant head of delegation in the Eurovision Song Contest team in 2007. It is also at this time that her connection the Portuguese National Selection becomes permanent. Always following these 2 projects, it is in 2015 that she becomes head of the Portuguese delegation and, with the victory of Salvador Sobral in 2017, she becomes part of the core team of the 2018 ESC which took place in Lisbon. There, she assumes the role of Deputy Executive Producer as well as representing RTP in the ESC Reference Group.